

My name is Ryan, a results-driven professional skilled in time management, pattern recognition, and critical thinking, with a passion for cybersecurity. I am dedicated to protecting digital assets by mitigating risks and securing infrastructure from threats. With expertise in risk management, threat analysis, and vulnerability assessments, I bring a logical mindset shaped by years of tech experience. My focus includes proactive defense strategies, incident response, and continuous monitoring, while ensuring compliance with regulations like GDPR and HIPAA. I aim to help organizations secure sensitive data and uphold a strong cybersecurity posture.
